End Grain Box with Suction Fit Lid with Roy Tedesco

I love it when the demonstrator brings hand-outs. It makes this write up so easy. Roy emphasized the critical part is the flange on the lid. Get this right and you will get the suction "pop" when the lid is removed. He said the best wood is dry, tight, and straight grained. Mount the blank between centers, round-up and turn a tenon on each end. Re-mount into 4-Jaw chuck. Using a thin parting tool, separate the base from the lid. Roy quickly hollows out the box lid with a Forster bit & square end scraper. Sand the inside. Now turn the flange and shoulder on the lid's edge. Don't make it to thin and give it a slight convex at the center. Rough turn the outside of the lid. Leave enough wood for a beefy handle. Part off and set aside. [Continued on page 2]

Shows Coming Out Of VA:

September 24-Jan 30, 2011, "A Revolution in Wood" Smithsonian American Art Museum, DC

Nov 11-14, 2nd Segmenting Symposium, Arrowmont School, Gatlinburg, TN.

Jan 28-29, TN 23rd Annual Symposium, Nashville.

June 2011, AAW Symposium Saint Paul, Mn

[Demo from p 1]

Mount the base in the chuck. Drill out the center; use a bowl gouge to widen it, clean up the edge, sand. Cut the shoulder last. Sneak up on the fit. Parallel shoulders are a must. Check the fit. Chamfer the inside of the base rim. Too loose, cut it off and try again. Mount the lid on the base and finish turning the lid. Turn the outside; add a bead or decorative touch to hide the joint. Part off the base and make a jam chuck out of the mounted waste. Mount the base and finish off the bottom. Check the web site to download Roy's more complete handout.

Shows Coming In VA:

Oct 23-24, VA Symposium, Fishersville

March 2011, Charles Farrar, Woodcraft Richmond

Safety First, Don't Drink & Turn

Lid on base for final turning

VA Symposium is Oct 23-24. They need help setting up on that Friday. 2 days of hands-on demos, vendors, and much more.

Meeting Vibrations

Ray had Open House at Woodcraft Oct 8 & 9. Lots of vendors, drawings for free tools, lots of things on sale (10+%) & free food. You missed a good one.

Visual Art Center with Roy Tedesco will have beginning turning for kids 12+ Monday night 6-8:30pm. Register with the art center.

Charles Farrar will be here March 2011. He lives in NC and has a BA degree from VSU. His portfolio is vessels, www.charlesfarrar.com

Hope to have a demo on eggs before Easter and finishes sometime in 2011

Visitor: Art Clockmen

Lee:

Please impart to the guild how much Sid and I enjoyed everyone coming yesterday. I am surprised these days, in the guilds I belong to, that there are so many faces that I do not know. It is good to see guilds grow and evolve though. Sidney so very much enjoys this event: and I know as long as they will come, and he can perform the dance, he will. The picnic seemed a smashing success from my standpoint.

Lastly, but not least, Cindy and Jerry both need to be thanked for their involvement and hard work.

Penny

p.s. I do believe there were more homemade dished too and that is always welcome at these events----every needs to be thanked for that.

VA / AAW News

Nick Cook Demonstration, Saturday, November 13, 2010. There will be an all day demonstration by Nick Cook at the Smith Mountain Lake Woodturners Club on Saturday November 13, 2010. Nick will be covering a variety of items designed to appeal to all levels of turners. The cost is $25.00 and includes lunch. There will also be an all day hands-on workshop on Sunday November 14, 2010. A few positions are still available so if you are interested, please contact me as soon as possible for the details and to reserve a spot for the workshop. The demo will take place at the Scruggs Fire and Rescue Station in Moneta, Virginia. We are located about 20 miles southeast of Roanoke, VA. Directions are on our website:

FOR SALE, BUY, or TRADE

Ray Deyo offers a 10% discount on non-power tools and supplies on meeting nights at Woodcraft for members only. Another very good reason to join us every month!

Another Missed Opportunity

to sell that underused material or equipment to another poor turner. Wait until December and donate it to the club's Silent Auction.
